COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 11.

COUNCIL drafts were allotted yesterday afternoon in London to the extent of 28 lacs, the minimum for the week being reduced 1-16, viz., to 1s. 8 1-16d.; of these Rs. 10,30,000 went to Calcutta, Rs. 20,000 to Madras, and Rs. 18,00,000 to Bombay. Bar Silver is quoted weak at 52½d., and the direct Bullion shipments are to this port £100,000 in Silver and £40,000 in Gold, to Calcutta £10,000 of each metal. The market rate of discount is given as ⅜ per cent. under the Bank minimums of 3 per cent. Consols are quoted £102, Indian Sterling 3½ per cent. Loan £102, and 4 and 4½ enfaced Paper £85 and £91-8-9 respectively.

The Council drafts to be bid for next week have been reduced to £300,000.

Money is easier in our market here, but the Bank of Bombay has made no further reduction in its rates. Indeed the last returns show a considerable increase in bills discounted at the lower rates, viz., of about 15 lacs, and the Reserves of Cash and Notes had fallen off about 12 lacs.

Our Stocks markets have been quiet but steady.

The Export trade going forward is still large, but the Cotton season has now reached a point at which the end can be seen of heavy shipments, and after the close of this month they will probably fall away rather rapidly. Broach, Oomras, and Bengals are now pretty well cleared out, and Dholleras descriptions are the only large growths now left. Dharwars are expected in fair quantity, and we will probably also have a little Westerns. There has been almost no alteration in the quotations sent from home during the week, but buyers at home seen now pretty well "full" of India Cottons, and the demand to arrive has not been active. Our market here has been rather slow of tone all week with little alteration in rates. Seeds and Wheat are also in much the same position in Europe, but a fair business continues to be done in them, as supplies come in and a good deal of it is said to be against former sales.

In Imports the trade has been disappointingly small, as with easier money a much better demand was anticipated. It is said, however, that some of the up-country markets are slow to move off the supplies they have got.

The accounts of Cotton in this morning from Liverpool report larger sales, viz. 14,000 bales, and report the market firm, but there is no change in official quotations.

Freights are rather quiet, and by the Canal to Liverpool 32s. 6d. is the rate for steamers. There is a continued good demand for ship tonnage by the Cape, however, and as there are few ships offering, rates remain steady at 52s. 6d.

Cotton has not fluctuated much during the week, but a moderate business has been done daily. Buyers have acted with great cautions, and have only bought, as a rule, when they found pressing sellers. The bulk of the business has of course been in Dholleras and Bhownuggurs. Several large lots of "Good" have been done at Rs. 190, and in some cases a little higher and a little lower has been done in ready Cotton, according to the quality of the lot offered. Fine Dholleras have also found purchasers at Rs. 202, and there have been some sales of Good Fair at Rs. 171, of native selection. Fully Good Dholleras have been placed at Rs. 191 to Rs. 193, according to the quality and the selection.

Oomras and Broach are now pretty well exhausted. Where they can be met with of satisfactory quality they readily find buyers at full limits. There have been a good many sales of well selected Broach, European at Rs. 230 and Native at Rs. 227, but there is not much of such Cotton to be had.

To-day, owing to the Liverpool accounts, being a little more favourable, an attempt is being made to raise prices, and buyers have to some extent responded, we consequently raise our quotations and give the following as the rates of the day :—

SEEDS.

Linseed.—We do not alter our quotations much, and the current rate is about Rs. 5-6, at which sales are reported of about 80,000 cwt.

Our Receipts and Shipments for the season are as follows :—

Rape is rather scarce and in demand, at Rs. 5-15 for Yellow and about Rs. 5 for Red.

Groundnuts are quiet, and we quote them Rs. 24 to Rs. 24½, at which not much business is doing.

Poppy Seed is in rather active request at Rs. 5-to Rs. 5-8.

Wheat is almost unaltered, and arrivals meet with a moderate demand at our quotations, which are for No. 1 White Rs. 32 to Rs. 33, Hard Red Kalta Rs. 24½, Yellow Rs. 28 to Rs. 28½, Ahmedabad Rs. 30 to Rs. 30½.

PIECE-GOODS are little changed since we last wrote. The clearances from the bazaar are for the week rather light, but with more moderate shipments from home we hope to see an improved demand again before long. A good many new orders are said to have gone home, but few of them have been placed. The lessons of the past year have not been lost upon the bazaar dealers, and the readiness with which they ordered goods out from Manchester in the first half of last year is not likely to be repeated this.

Yarns are quiet and unchanged.

METALS.

Copper and Yellow Metal Braziers are for ready sale a little lower than last mail, say about As. 8, but they are in good demand at the decline. To arrive the dealers have already bought largely at about a rupee under present rates, and they will not go on for further contracts. The prices now offered are too low for the orders to be placed.

Spelter is very depressed with a heavy stock.

COALS.—We quote :—

Davison's Best Hartly.	Rs. 14 to Rs. 14½	alongside
Welsh Hartely	„ 13½ to „ 13¾	do.
Cardiff	„ 15 to „ 15½	do.

There is a fair demand at our quotations.

STOCKS.

GOVERNMENT PAPER was firm on Friday last at Rs. 101⅞ for fours and Rs. 108½ for fours-and-a-half per cents. On Saturday and Monday a fair business was done at these rates, and some lots were placed of the 4 per cents. even at Rs. 101 15-16 and Rs. 102 for small prices. Duller accounts however having come from Calcutta, we became weak at Rs. 101 11-16 to Rs. 101⅞ for fours and Rs. 108½ for fours-and-a-half. Yesterday we were steadier, and Rs. 101⅞ and Rs. 108½ may now be given at the rates we close at.

Bank shares are unaltered, except Bank of Bombays which have been done at a shade higher, viz., Rs. 782½. Calcutta telegrams quote Bank of Bengals down to Rs. 840, which we may take as our quotation also, as they are not much dealt in in this market.

In Land shares Colabas have fallen to Rs. 765 and Port Cannings have advanced to Rs. 212½.

Press Companies generally are steady at the prices of last mail, but Mofussil we quote Rs. 5 lower, viz., Rs. 330]

Mill shares took another decided turn downwards on Friday last, and quotations were reduced Rs. 5 to Rs. 30 for many Companies. On Saturday, however, buyers came out at the decline, and we have been firm ever since, and a good deal of the fall has since been recovered. Manockjee Petit is Rs. 5 lower on the week, Sholapur Rs. 10, Western India Rs. 10, Mahalukmi Rs. 25, Oriental Rs. 7½, Hindustan Rs. 20, Dhurumsey Rs. 20, Parel Rs. 10, and a few others in the same way. The tone, however, is to-day firm and in favour of sellers.

EXCHANGE has steadily tended downwards ever since last mail left, and we quote a reduction in rates of all kinds of bills of about 3-32d. At the lower quotations of the past two days rather more business has been offering, and to-day we are perhaps a shade steadier. Credits were sold on the morning 3 months' at ⅜, but there are now no buyers except at 1-32 higher. We quote rates as follows :—

	Tel.	Demand.	3 months'	4 months'
Banks	1s. 8 1-16d.	1s. 8¼d.	1s. 8¼d.	1s. 8 9-32d.

Credits	1s. 8 13-32d		1s. 8 9-16d.
Documents	1s. 8 7-16d.		1s. 8¾d.
Francs	2/5		2/17

On Calcutta the demand rate is 100 1-16d., and on China at 60 days' sight Mercantile Bills are quoted Rs. 218.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
SIMLA, MAY 11.

CRITICAL POSITION OF AFFAIRS IN EGYPT.

A REVOLUTION IMPENDING.

The last news from Egypt is of great interest. A Simla contemporary's statement that Government have a plan complete for a campaign in Egypt means little, for no actual arrangements exist for mobilising and embarking even a division at a few days' notice. No arrangements exist by which such a force could reach Suez within full six weeks.

[REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.]
(By Red Sea Cable.)

CAIRO, MAY 10.

Affairs here are in a critical state. The Ministry resist the Khedive's commutation of the sentence passed on the Circassian officers, and contemplate deposing him. The British and French Consuls-General support the Khedive. It is reported that several of the foreign Consuls have asked their respective Governments to despatch ironclads to Alexandria.

CAIRO, MAY 10, EVENING.

Egypt is in a state of revolution. The Ministers have summoned the Chamber to assemble without any authority for so doing.

It is considered that the deposition of the Khedive in favour of Arabi Pasha is virtually achieved unless immediate intervention is decided upon. The Ministers have given their formal assurances that there will be no danger to the lives and property of Europeans, but in case of Turkish intervention, they are resolved to defend the country.

Arrivals—Clan Murray and Sestos.

GENERAL W. S. HATCH, an officer for many years well known in Bombay, leaves for home by the Clyde to-day, probably for good. General Hatch joined the Artillery branch of the service in 1841, became Lieutenant in 1844, Captain in 1854, Major in 1858, Lieutenant-Colonel in 1861, Colonel in 1866, Major-General in 1877, and Lieutenant-General in 1880.

LADY BAYLEY goes home in the Clyde.

MR. J. B. PEILE, C. S. I., Acting Chief Secretary to the Bombay Government, goes on furlough for twelve months from the 19th inst. Mr. Gonne resumes charge of his appointment.

SIR CHARLES TURNER, Chief Justice of the Madras High Court, was to leave Madras on the 10th instant for Bombay, en route to England. Sir Charles has obtained three months' leave, to commence from after the vacation, so that he will have four months' holiday altogether.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing to us from Mahableshwur, says:—There was a rumour of the intention of a high official to resign, but it was based on a more restricted intention—namely, to accompany certain members of his family as far as Aden. And this intention has now been quite given up.

MR. JUSTICE PIGOT, the newly appointed Judge of the Calcutta High Court, took his seat on the bench on the Original Side of the Court on Monday morning.

MAJOR WALLER, V. C., has been appointed to succeed Lieutenant-Colonel Baumgartner (retired) as Assistant Political Agent in subordinate charge of the Southern Mahratta Country Jaghirs, and continues also to act as Joint Administrator of Sangli.

A NUMBER of changes amongst the Sessions Judges are notified in yesterday's Government Gazette.

FORMAL notice is given that a Senior Assistant Judge will be appointed at Broach with special territorial jurisdiction within the portion of the district of Surat forming the collectorate of Broach. Mr. Hammick has been appointed to the new Judgeship.

THE May Frere returned yesterday morning from Dwarka and Diu Head with Commander Dundas Taylor, who has been inspecting the Guzerat coast, with a view to the establishment of lights at suitable points.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to us:—"You noticed in the Bombay Gazette in August of last year that a number of piece-goods dealers in Bombay had combined together to break the Freight Conference, and with the assistance and intercession of Messrs. Forbes, Forbes and Co., London, had succeeded in making a very satisfactory arrangement as to freight by a new line of steamers—the 'Inch Line' —from Liverpool. This arrangement has worked very well, but it is rumoured that there is not only that unanimity among the dealers now as existed then, and that in view of a new contract to be entered into upon the expiry of the old one, several of the dealers have seceded, and at the moment the prospect is that the combination which so successfully broke up the Conference will be dispersed; so that no combined action can be taken for insisting upon a uniform cheap rate of freight for piece-goods for some time to come. This will be hailed with some exultation by the different lines of steamers and their agents in Bombay."

OUR (Pioneer) latest Persian news, received from a good authority, is that a Russian detachment has been sent to the Tejend River, and have occupied an entrenched position there, though whether the party is merely engaged in survey work, or has more sinister designs, does not appear.

THE Honourable H. J. Reynolds, B. A., C. S., has been elected to succeed Sir Ashley Eden as President of the Asiatic Society of Bengal.

THE Thakor of Napad, Kaira Zillah, has applied to have his property managed under the Incumbered Estates Act.

THE Hindu Patriot says that the Bengal Rent Bill, which has been transmitted to the Secretary of State, will be committed to Sir William Muir for consideration and report. He took an active part in the discussions on the Rent Bill of 1859.

A CORRESPONDENT adds the following postcript to a note written at Simla on the 6th May:—"A hailstorm is now rattling on the roof of my little corner over a precipice, like ten million bricks."

THE Hindu Patriot:—"We regret to learn that the Registrar of the London University has issued a notice prohibiting graduates of the Indian Universities from presenting themselves at any of the examinations of the London University, until they shall have previously passed the London Entrance test, which hitherto was not necessary. This decision is attributed to the late agitation on the subject."

THE death of Captain Fulford causes a vacancy in the Quartermaster-General's Department; the senior officiating Deputy Assistant is Captain G. Young, B. S. C., who has been holding the appointment at Allahabad since 6th July last year, when Captain Hailes, the permanent incumbent, proceeded home on medical certificate. The late Captain Fulford entered the service in 1865, and joined the Staff Corps from the Royal Artillery in 1870; he was one of, if not the first, officer of the Bengal Staff Corps who went through the Staff College at Sandhurst, out of which he passed in 1880, and shortly after his return to India he was appointed to the Quartermaster-General's Department and posted to the Rohilkund district in July, 1881. At the time he was shot he had only been at Peshawur a week or so on transfer to the permanent establishment of the department.

THE following extract from a private letter from a passenger who sailed from London to the Cape a few weeks ago in one of the largest and best steamers gives a plain and unsensational description of a scene which is a disgrace to civilisation:—

"Last night we crossed the Line at seven o'clock, when Father Neptune arrived with due éclat. . . . Immediately after dinner to-day Father Neptune (one of the oldest seamen), his lady (a cabin-boy dressed as a woman), and the baby (a doll) came aft riding on a car drawn by six 'sea lions' (sailors covered with sheepskin and in a crawling posture). They were preceded by four violinists and followed by 'money collectors' and 'policemen.' The car was drawn over the whole ship, and sums ranging from 1s. to 20s. collected from the passengers, who hoped by this fine to escape, but they were wofully disappointed. A large bath, about 4 ft. deep by 20 ft. long and 10 ft. wide, was prepared on deck, and to it the procession returned. Neptune and 'his lady' were placed on a throne, and the 'sea lions' leaped into the bath. The barber and his apprentice took up a position in front to shave all whom the 'policemen' could capture. The first brought forward was a man in the garb of a ship's fireman, all becoomed and besmoked. He was operated upon with a razor about 2 ft long, and lathered with paste, which was not confined to the chin, but applied liberally to the face and head, and if the victim could be cheated into opening his mouth the brush was ruthlessly inserted. Before recovering from this creatment he found himself tossed backward into the bath, on the edge of which he had been seated, and held down by the 'sea lions,' from whom he escaped only after being half drowned. The pseudo-fireman turned out to be the first officer, and this circumstance gave a sort of official approval to the subsequent proceedings. The doctor and a first-class passenger next underwent the ordeal without much resistance; but then a well-dressed passenger was carried in, kicking, protesting, beseeching, offering '20s. to escape,' and so on; but all in vain. Seeing that his efforts were unavailing, he began to draw off his valuables, such as his gold watch and diamond studs; and in the meantime he was being daubed with red paint, Stockholm tar, blood, paste, ochre, and other objectionable compounds, rendering a fresh suit of greys completely useless. Many of us (among them the writer) submitted to being blackmailed in hope of escaping, but the seamen were excited and inexorable, and more than a hundred suffered. Although the reality was, perhaps, not so bad as we had imagined, the experience was anything but pleasant, and I am the poorer by a pair of pants."

Land asks:—"How many people are there who knew that the Pope is a farmer? Such is the fact, however, and there is reason to believe that His Holiness makes a very good thing of it. Leo XIII. 'goes in,' however, neither for the growing of cereals nor the raising of stock, but for the breeding of fish. The lagoons of Comaccio are thus turned to profitable use. Eels are the staple, and several tons of cooked eels are sent from the lagoons every Lent. The fish come up in immense shoals from the Adriatic, and are fed in the lagoons on other fish provided for them, until they are nicely fattened, when they are killed, and cooked in a vast kitchen. The labourers on these water-farms dwell in barracks built on an island. This is yet another instance of the strange use to which land may be put."

"ATLAS" would like to know exactly how many different uniforms and other costumes the Prince of Wales possesses. "He must have a wardrobe as large as Mr. Irving or any other theatrical star, and must be quite as much in need of a 'dresser.' At Portsmouth he appeared the first day in a Volunteer uniform—that, I believe, of some Lancashire regiment; at the Review he was in the uniform of the Civil Service Corps; the same night I saw him at Government House in the red tunic of a general officer. He can on occasion turn out as an admiral, a guardsman, a hussar, a highlander, a uhlan, or in the flowing robes of an Indian rajah, possibly of a Chinaman or Jap."

Apropos of the expulsion of Mr. Redmond from the House of Commons, and the cause thereof, the Pall Mall Gazette writes:—Mr. Redmond is a glib enough recruit to his party; but he is young and inexperienced, and seems to hanker after the asperities of Mr. Biggar. When he began to speak the House was drowsy; but it was sharply awakened by hearing Mr. Forster dubbed "dishonest." Mr. Redmond continued amid cries of "Order," but he was not to be put out of countenance. Mr. Speaker called him to order, but it only provoked him to fresh offences. He regretted that "the truth could not be spoken in this House;" and then—after another and more emphatic remonstrance—that he was sorry that "the rules of this House militate against the speaking of the truth." After this defiance Mr. Redmond put on his hat with a contemptuous flourish, and sank into his seat with a saucy air and self-satisfied look, surprising even his colleagues by his aplomb. When the result of the division on his suspension for the sitting was announced, he bowed politely to the Speaker and Mr. Forster, and walked quietly down the floor of the House.

NEW YORK is just now the scene of an amusing operatic imbroglio of which "Colonel" Mapleson is the hero or victim. He has received a challenge to a duel à outrance from the father of Mdlle. Vachot, an injured operatic star. That Colonel Mapleson has brought to bear all the blandishments of the impresario is evident from the affecting story of the Vachots, mother and daughter, told, so it is said, with frequent interruptions of tears and laughter:—

"I thought," says Madame, "nobody in Paris knew where we had gone to, but who should turn up but Mr. Mapleson? He had uncovered (déniché) our little nest there, made Marie (Mdlle. Vachot) cook him a cutlet and prepare him some nice salad, and then went to work to set her head crazy about America, to make her believe it was a perfect paradise." "Yes," Mdlle. Vachot exclaimed laughing in spite of her red eyes, "I asked him if I should like a nice benefit.' 'Benefit?' he asked contemptuously. 'In America, he said, it was not the custom to give benefits—all I should have to do was to give my name for the evening and then the columns of flowers, the doves (colombes), and the diamonds would be showered at my feet. Ah! the diamonds! how much I was disappointed about them! Coming over on the steamer I said to a gentleman that I would like that peculiar American institution of diamond ovations amazingly; and how disenchanted (desillusionné) I was!"

Mr. Mapleson's opinion about his prima donna is that "her parents are the matter." "Is she a good temper, ed, too amiable, too soft to be a great singer. All great singers, you know"—here is a pleasant fact, and surely the authority is a good one—"have a devil of a temper."

IN a review of Froude's Carlyle the Pall Mall Gazette says:—"Carlyle was the last of a remarkable generation of Scotchmen—the generation to which Brougham, Jeffrey, and Macaulay belonged—two among whom, Chalmers and Irving, had grown up under influences much like his, and showed, with less intellectual brilliance, the same Puritan type of character in a more amiable form. He was Scotch not only in the peculiar glow of his mind—the speciiic note of the Scot among the scholars of the Middle Ages—but in its narrowness; for, with all his vast reading and ejoyment of writers so unpuritanical as Goethe and Voltaire, he remained incapable of entering into and appreciating certain sides of human thought and life, and could not judge the changes in taste or political sentiment that happened during his later life by other canons than those he had already formed. One exquisitely characteristic bit of Lowland Scottish prejudice peeps out in his aversion to the Highland Celts. Here is what he writes to Miss Welsh about Thomas Campbell, the poet:—

'Him I like worst of all. He is heartless as a little Edinburgh advocate. There is a smirk on his face which would befit a shopman or an auctioneer. His very eye has the cold vivacity of a counter-scuffling. His talk is small, contemptuous, and shallow. His wife has black eyes, a fair skin, a symmetrical but vulgar face; and she speaks with that accursed Celtic accent, a twang which I never yet heard associated with any manly or profitable thought or sentiment, which to me is but the symbol of Highland vanity and filth and famine. "Good heavens!" cried I, on coming out, "does literature lead to this? Shall I, too, by my utmost efforts, realise nothing but a stupid Gaelic wife, with a pitiful gift of making verses, and affections cold as those of a tinker's cuddie?'"

"Next to Milton, Carlyle is the greatest literary man that Puritanism produced, at least in this island; and that his Puritanism seems to cling closer to him than it does to Milton, whom we can think of as a poet and a political idealist without his Puritanism, may seem to show that this form of morality and religion is more akin to the Scotch than to the English nature. Carlyle certainly owed much to it. He had a strong sense of duty, a deep fund of reverence, a just perception both of the weakness and of the dignity of human nature, a contempt for luxury and the pleasures of sense, an independence and self-reliance which was ready to face the world and the devil alone. With these virtues, it gave him, or at least disposed him to, one serious fault—that of mistaking his own dislikes or contempts for the judgment of ideal morality, or in fact of the Deity, and of looking on himself as an exponent of abstract righteousness."

NEWS FROM OLYMPUS.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)
SIMLA, MAY 6.

I HAVE already telegraphed to you some of the facts concerning the proposed transfer of three civilians from the Punjab to Bombay. They "are memorialising" the Viceroy, we are told. They have only memorialised a local newspaper which the very name Government affects in the same manner as a red rag excites a bull. Anything "agen the Government." Your Lahore contemporary lately helped a local tailor to "heap ridicule" upon the Government—and all about three scabbards. On comparing the editorial utterance—I believe that is the word—and the tailor's letter, you will perhaps agree with me that the tailor is the better journalist of the two. And so the newspaper in question is again "heaping ridicule" on the Government for having, in the civilians' case, acted in strict and impartial accordance with the regulations of the Civil Service. In 1877 the Secretary of State informed the Government of India that all civilians appointed after that date would be told that they were liable to be called upon to serve in any part of the country. It very rarely happens that civilians are obliged to leave the province of their selection; and the rare exceptions will become still more rare in consequence of the measures which the Indian Government are now taking to regulate the supply of civilians in exact accordance with the requirements of each province. Until the balance between the demand and the supply is established, instances of transfer will occur. Now, as Messrs. Drew, Cappel, and Johnstone were appointed in 1878-79, they must have been or should have been, aware of the conditions under which they were entering the service. Of course it is possible that through some inadvertence the three gentlemen were not made aware of the Secretary of State's regulation. In which case they have every right to protest, if they feel at all aggrieved. Of the juniors to the three selected civilians, one has already been transferred to another part of India, and one has died. Lastly, as really good men are required for the work in the Bombay Presidency, the Government have had to choose officers who have shown capacities and energies which not all their juniors have yet had a fair opportunity of displaying. In stating that the Punjab civilians have not memorialised the Government of India, I only mean to say that no memorial was received up to yesterday afternoon.

For eighteen months and more Wazirada Mahomed Afzul Khan has been "going" to Kabul. He will be gone next Monday, positively, if not before. As I have already telegraphed to you, the Envoy goes on no special mission. His present business will merely be to represent the general views of the Indian Government on political affairs, to watch events, and report upon them. His duties may be understood from a passage in the letter which His Excellency the Viceroy addressed to the Amir on the 8th March last year. "I am desirous," said Lord Ripon, "of sending to your Highness's Court Wazirada Mahomed Afzul Khan, a gentleman of good family and position, who is personally known to your Highness, and who, on the occasion of his deputation to Turkestan, was of much service in promoting the interests of the two Governments. He will give your Highness information on any matters of detail regarding which your Highness may wish from time to time to be informed; and his presence in attendance on your Highness in Kabul may be useful and advantageous in the transaction of any business with my officers in India." This definition of the Envoy's functions still holds good. For the rest, the Envoy will travel without state, parade, or ceremony of any sort. He will be attended by his personal servants only.

"This," said the Amir, replying to Lord Ripon's letter, "is very considerate of your Excellency." And he went on to say that the presence of a British Envoy at Kabul would "stop the tongues" of slanderers and babblers. But he added that he thought it would be better if the despatch of the Envoy were delayed until the settlement of affairs at Kandahar. This shows either the ambiguity or the incorrectness of the statement sometimes made by one of your up-country contemporaries, that the Envoy was to be sent at the repeated solicitations of the Amir. The first suggestion, at all events, appears to have been made by the Viceroy. The point, however, would hardly be worth notice, but for the anxiety of over-zealous keepers of the Viceregal dignity to impress the public with the notion that there has been no solicitation on the part of the Indian Government as regards the Kabul and Ava missions. Of course there has not been. With respect to Kabul, there was only a friendly suggestion, of which, no doubt, the Amir has been and will be very glad to avail himself. Nor need the Burmah Envoys be told that they have come five thousand miles to see the Viceroy, uninvited. The reminder will not, certainly, produce in them a livelier sense of English dignity than they entertained before. None, perhaps, have less dignity than those who are always asserting it. Besides, the reminder is somewhat unjust, inasmuch as it might seem to imply that the benefits to be derived from a treaty with Upper Burmah will all be on one side. But the memorials of the Rangoon merchants, to say nothing of the Viceroy's straightforward, firm, and clear utterances on the importance of unimpeded commerce, are a sufficient answer to this implication. A clear statement of what the Government of India want, and an equally clear hint of what may possibly happen in case of refusal, are the best guarantees not only for diplomatic success, but also for the maintenance of prestige, imperial dignity, and all the rest of it. As for the Kabul Envoy, no happier choice could have been made. He is the tried servant of the Government of India, and the proud friend of the Amir. For nearly twenty years he has ably and faithfully served the former in military and civil offices, and diplomatic missions; while it may fairly be said that the latter owes to him, in a great measure, the successful result of his negotiations in Seistan.

Of the general result of the Burmah negotiations, the management of which, as I have already informed you, has been left to the Foreign Secretary and Mr. Kirkpatrick, very little doubt is entertained here. The concessions will, presumably, all come from the other side; for the simple reason that there is so little left for the Government of India to concede. In the matter of reduction on customs duties the Indian Government has been extremely liberal in past years. But probably some concessions may be made to the King of Burmah respecting the importation of arms and ammunition. Naturally, too, the re-establishment of the Residency at Mandalay—which has been asked for by the Burmese themselves—would depend on the Mandalay King's giving in on all the points insisted on by the British Government. According to the Viceroy's own speeches, and the Chief Commissioner's recent memorandum to the Burmese Foreign Minister, the commercial points are those to which the Indian Government attaches the chief importance. "I should like," said Lord Ripon, "that the Government of Mandalay should clearly understand that there is nothing so serious to us as anything affecting our trade." Here, again, is a passage from Mr. Bernard's memorandum:—"There is nothing in the relations between the Indian and Upper Burman Governments to which the Viceroy attaches more importance than to unrestricted commerce * * * If, therefore, the Government of His Majesty the King continue the policy of granting monopolies, the Viceroy will be compelled to regard the Government of Mandalay as indifferent to the maintenance of good relations with the British Government." Clearly, this condition of free commerce admits of no compromise. There will be no use in denying that the monopoly system has been worse under King Theebaw than under his predecessor. In 1881 monopolies were created in sugar, cotton, tea, cutch, and some other articles; although by the treaty of 1867 the King's rights were restricted, as pointed out by the Rangoon merchants, to oil, timber, and precious stones. The effect of these monopolies on the import trade from Upper Burmah is sufficiently obvious. Monopolised goods are more highly priced than free goods; so that British merchants will have all the more to pay for their return consignments. All that the Governments of India and Burmah can say on this subject has already been said; and it may pretty confidently be inferred that if the Envoys had no instructions to make important concessions, they would have been detained at home.

By the way, I may mention, for what it is worth, a rumour to the effect that Mr. Pilcher, who has accompanied the Burmah Mission to Simla, will probably be the officer selected for the Residentship at Mandalay. But obviously any such rumour must be premature—if for no other reason than that the re-establishment of the Residency will naturally, as said above, depend on the result of the other negotiations. At the same time, Mr. Pilcher is, no doubt, exceptionally well qualified for the post: and it may be stated that when Colonel Duncan was made Resident in 1875, Mr. Pilcher was appointed to the office of Assistant Political Agent at Mandalay. But whoever goes, it is sincerely to be hoped that he will represent something more than the push and the strength of British trade. There are things more precious, even on this dull earth, than pounds, shillings, and pence; and the restoration of the Agency should in itself be a pledge against the repetition of the barbarous crimes which an English officer had the humiliation to allow to be perpetrated almost before his eyes, in his inability to prevent them.

Akbar Khan of Lalpoora was not the only chief who, in the Kabul-Khyber line of country who hesitated to obey the Amir's summons to proceed to the capital. The Badshah of Kunar at first refused to go. It may be observed that Akbhar Khan had presented himself to the Amir at Kabul once before. No doubt the news of the executions which had taken place in Kabul since the date of his visit made the Khan tremble to think what might become of his own head, if its owner should visit Kabul a second time. He magnanimously thrust the glory and the enterprise of the journey upon his brother. This, in itself, was an indication that the Khan had no intention of rebelling; it amounted to an acknowledgment of the Amir's supremacy. The Government of India have intervened in a friendly way between the Amir and the Padshah, as they already have between His Highness and Akhbar Khan. The timid Padshah will visit Kabul, no doubt, with as much pleasure to himself as his neighbour of Lalpoora has already experienced.

Having knocked off the tallest heads, His Highness can afford to be merciful. The impression entertained of him by certain high officials here, who are in the best possible position to know, is that Abdul Rahman is a man of strong character, force of will, and of originality withal. If this be the case he is the ruler for the Afghans. He is cruel—very cruel, according to Western notions. But cruelty in an oriental king may be more a matter of policy than of temperament. Even Runjeet Singh excused himself for his numerous executions, on the ground that leniency would mean his overthrow. And meanwhile Abdul Rahman prospers. The country is more peaceful than at any time since the outbreak of the war. And the foolish rumours to the contrary should impose upon no one who is neither an ignoramus nor a panic-monger. Those who really study the Central Asiatic question will smile—good-humouredly, or contemptuously, according to the mood of the moment—at the extravagances of Kabul news. Those who are too indolent, or too careless, to study the matter for themselves—well, they deserve all they get.

MALARIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Will you allow me to say a few words anent the correspondence on the subject of malaria which appeared in your issue of the 8th instant? The writer, who is evidently a disciple of the new school, and a firm believer of the new theory that the evolution of malaria has nothing to do with vegetable organic decomposition, may or may not be right in giving the credit of originating it to Dr. Smith. So long as the truth of the theory remains unproven, it matters little or nothing to the scientific world whether Dr. Smith or anybody else should take the credit of merely propounding it. The real points at issue in regard to malaria are—(1) what is the nature of malaria? (2) what are the conditions that give rise to its evolution? Can your correspondent "An old pupil" explain to the medical profession whether it is a gas, or whether it is a vegetable spore, and if its presence can be demonstrated in the air? All we know about malaria is from its effects on animal life. That such an agent as malaria exists in the air or in drinking water there is no doubt; but whether it is a gas or an animal or vegetable organic germ remains to be settled by microscopists.

With regard to the conditions that give rise to the evolution of malaria, much has been set forth, but nothing conclusive has hitherto been arrived at. Doubts have been expressed whether the fevers known as malarial fevers are produced by telluric effluvia or by substances percolating from the soil into the drinking water.

For the production of the fermentation process which gives rise to malaria a great variety of conditions is necessary, of which the chief factors are recognised to be the soil, heat, and moisture.

Soils which contain vegetable organic matter in large quantity have been known to cause periodical fevers, but malaria can also prevail on pure sand, chalk, or limestone. The presence of decomposing vegetable matter, though not absolutely essential, is in a great measure conducive to the production of malaria, e.g., marshes and alluvial soils.

Heat influences the production of malaria in the following manner. Exposure to the direct rays of the sun must take place before malaria can be generated. Heat short of 60° F. will not, as a rule, give rise to the evolution of malaria. The greater the heat the greater the evolution.

Moisture to saturation is, I believe, the principal factor in the production of malaria. Soils, so long as they are regularly overflowed and inundated, will not give rise to malaria; but when the water subsides and the surface is exposed to the sun's rays, a favourable condition arises for the evolution of the subtle agent know as malaria.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE B. B. & C. I. RAILWAY.

ON the morning of the 8th instant the boiler of the engine attached to a goods train proceeding from Ahmedabad to Wadwan exploded on the Sabarmatti, killing driver Fernandes and second fireman Nana. The accident happened at about 9 o'clock in the morning. The second fireman was blown to pieces. His head and one arm are not even now found. Driver Caetan Fernandes was thrown on a water tank, and the first fireman, happening to be outside the engine car, escaped with slight injury. The report of the explosion was heard in the Ahmedabad Camp. The company's medical officer, Dr. Major, Mr. Thomas, Locomotive Foreman, and Mr. Naoroji, Police Inspector, immediately repaired to the scene with a view to render assistance; but it was too late. The driver died about an hour after the accident, while being carried on a litter to Ahmedabad. The scene after the explosion was terrible. Two entire rails were split, and huge pieces of the boiler were seen lying some distance from the original spot. The line was blocked, and uptrains from Wadwan had to be delayed. An inquest was held on the body of the driver. It is said that the boiler was old and had been newly repaired. Inquiries are being held the railway authorities.

asylum—Mr. Maclean only polled 90 in that borough, and the total he received in the whole of the Elgin Burghs was only 764, against 2,082 for Mr. Grant Duff. Of the votes given to Mr. Maclean it is stated that he received 309 in Elgin itself, where he succeeded, we are told, in making a very favourable impression upon friend as well as foe, having gained the goodwill and respect of those from whom he differed. During the contest very much of Mr. Maclean's oratory was directed personally against Mr. Grant Duff, as the exponent of a foreign policy hostile to that so disastrously pursued by the late Conservative Government, which finds in Mr. Maclean a fervent supporter. His topics were, therefore, more foreign than domestic, but in a speech he delivered in October last, at a banquet of the Banffshire Conservative Association, at Keitch, a town in the centre of Banffshire, he elaborated views in regard to Fair Trade which will doubtless commend him to a certain section of Oldham Conservatives, whatever we may say about his political sagacity and common sense in countenancing such effete notions. From this speech, and the one he delivered at Greenacres five weeks ago, it is evident that however meritorious his career in India may have been in many respects, his politics are not such as will meet with much approval in Oldham. He is one of those Indian alarmists who tremble at the Russian bugbear, and approved the aggressive Afghan policy of the late Government, with all its disastrous consequences. He is a Tory of the Tories in condemning the "vicious principle of the Irish Land Act," and when he talks about levying 25 or 30 millions on American products, such as corn and meat, in order to induce them to modify its charges on our manufactured goods, he supports a policy which the people will never tolerate, and which, if tried, would be a most egregious and complete failure. As a specimen of the wild alarms in which he indulges with regard to English politics, we may mention his assertions that a revolutionary wave of feeling is passing over the country, and that passions similar to those which moved the French people during their terrible revolutionary excesses have gained access to the British Cabinet. Nothing but ignorance of English politics can excuse such gross exaggeration, and, though Mr. Maclean's career in India may have been everything his friends claim for it, it by no means follows that he will be a conspicuous success in England. There is one thing Mr. Maclean can do which will be of immense advantage to our Oldham Conservatives. He can speak well upon a public platform, and, in view of the utter failure of Mr. Smith Taylor-Whitehead in this respect the Conservatives may be congratulated on their choice of a second candidate who will be able to express his opinions with grace and fluency. A correspondent writes of him that, from the Conservative point of view, he "is a man of great talent, of patient temper, and one who will yet win his way to the House of Commons, where on Indian matters at least he will be listened to with attention. He has, too, a commanding presence and a ready utterance, and, in short, is a typical M. P. and legislator." Coming to them with these credentials, Oldham Liberals must recognise in Mr. Maclean a foeman worthy of their steel, whom they will have the pleasure of beating whenever the election comes, unless we opine will not be till they have had many opportunities of becoming personally acquainted with the new candidate for their suffrages.—Oldham Chronicle

"ROYAL CHARTER."
REFERRING to the QUEEN'S LAST BALL, "Truth" says:—
The supper is always most admirable at the Palace, and the Wines unexceptionable notably the DRY CHAMPAGNE. In this respect the Queen sets an example which might very well be followed at other fashionable entertainments, at most of which the guests are ruthlessly poisoned with the cheapest abominations that can be bought.
The above refers to WACHTER'S ROYAL CHARTER.

THIS Company has been formed to purchase and take over the Cotton Spinning Works, Properties, and Machinery, now in course of erection at Chinchpoogly, on the Island of Bombay, and belonging to Messrs. James Scott & Co., Merchants, 6, Rampart Row, an agreement made between Messrs. James Scott & Co., the vendors on the one part and on behalf of the Company of the other part, dated the 3rd of April, 1882. Copies of the abovementioned Agreement and of the Memorandum and Articles of Association can be seen at the offices of the Solicitors in Bombay, and all other information required by intending Subscribers can be obtained at the offices of the Agents, 6, Rampart Row.
The Directors have resolved to spin the lower numbers of yarns, from the cheapest class of cotton, mixed with the better class of waste, which other Companies cannot use for the finer counts. Taking into consideration the low price of the raw material, coupled with a great saving in labour, a very handsome profit is expected.
The position of the Company is entirely exceptional, as the Agents only get 10 per cent. upon the net profits declared. 500 shares have already been subscribed, the other half 500) is offered to the public NOTICE.
WASTE LANDS AVAILABLE FOR PLANTERS IN THE TAVOY DISTRICT.
WASTE LANDS, covered at present with forest, bamboos, or grass, are available for plantations of coffee, tea, cinchona, or spices at altitudes varying from 100 feet to 6,800 feet above the sea in the Tavoy district. The region is between the 13th and 14th parallels of north latitude, and the rainfall ranges from 190 to 220 inches a year. The lands are mostly within 30 to 50 miles of the steamer station of Thayetchoung on the Tavoy river. Mail steamers ply between Thayetchoung and Moulmein or Rangoon once a week inwards and outwards.
II.—Grants of land in lots ranging from 100 to 1,200 acres can be had for planting tea, coffee, cinchona, or spices on application to the Deputy Commissioner of Tavoy. Such grants will be made in accordance with the "Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876," and with the rules sanctioned thereunder by the Governor-General of India in Council. Copies of the Act and rules can be obtained by intending planters on application to the Deputy Commissioner of Tavoy, the Commissioner of Tenasserim at Moulmein, or the Secretariat, Rangoon.
III.—In addition to the concessions and conditions laid down in the Act and rules, the following special concessions will be made to persons taking up land for plantations of coffee, tea, cinchona, or spices, in Tavoy, namely,—
(1) A grantee must bring under cultivation one-third of his grant within 12 years from the date of his obtaining the grant. If, after the expiration of 12 years, any surplus uncultivated land, in excess of two acres of waste for each acre of cultivated land, shall remain on the grant, such surplus waste shall then revert to Government; and the grantee shall have no further claim or right in the surplus which has so reverted.
(2) A grantee will not be liable to pay any land revenue or any price for the land of his grant until the end of the tenth year after he enters on possession, provided that he takes bona fide steps to cultivate a reasonable proportion of the grant with coffee, tea, cinchona, or spices. In the event of any grantee desiring a more precise definition of a "reasonable proportion," the Chief Commissioner may decide before hand in each case what proportion of the grant ought to be thus cultivated in each year.
(3) After the end of the tenth year the grantee will be liable to pay land revenue at the rate of Rs. 1-4-0 per acre and ccses at the rate of two annas per acre on one-third of his grant up to the year 1900 A.
